WITH SALLY O'NEIL

Hello Everyone

Hope all is well. Here we are another month gone and halfway through the school term, Easter holidays will be on before we know it. The rain has certainly performed as predicted with some nice falls throughout the shire and all rivers running a banker.

You may have recently heard the news Barcoo Shire has been one of a few in Qld no longer declared to be in drought. Whilst Council recognise the country is looking magnificent we are also aware properties to the west and outside the channel country footprint still remain in drought. Some further investigation into the process the Dept of Agriculture and Fisheries use to make this determination has been sourced. It is a recommendation made to the Minister by the Local Drought Committee based on scientific data around ground cover. Local Government has no say in this decision. Council has been provided with the following information by the Dept of Agriculture for landholders who believe they are still in drought and those who are fortunate enough to have had a good season.

The Agricultural Industry Development and Fisheries Minister and Rural Communities Minister, Mark Furner, recently announced he had accepted the recommendation of the Local Drought Committees (LDCs) to revoke several regions' drought status from 1 March 2023. Please find a link to the media statement about the recent drought status revocations for Rockhampton, Central Highlands, Woorabinda, Barcoo and eastern Barcaldine. Further information relating to the Queensland's drought status and assistance available for rural industries and primary producers is listed below.

Drought revocations and declarations

The Queensland Government provides seasonal climate and pasture information for rural Queensland via the LongPaddock website. This includes information on recent drought declarations and revocations, declaration maps, LDC processes and further information on drought.

It should be noted that primary producers in drought-revoked areas can access freight subsidies for restocking and returning from agistment under the Drought Relief Assistance Scheme (DRAS). These subsidies are available for two years after a current drought declaration is revoked.

Ongoing Queensland Government drought support

Drought assistance in Queensland has been broadened and is now open to eligible primary producers across all agricultural sectors, to better manage future droughts without needing a current drought declaration. The Department of Agriculture and Fisheries provides support to primary producers to prepare for future droughts through the Drought Assistance Program. The program offers primary producers assistance to:

- write a Farm Business Resilience Plan to support the productivity and profitability of their business, identify and assess risks, identify opportunities to improve their business, and develop strategies and actions on how to manage risks and progress opportunities;
- access training and workshops through the Farm Business Resilience Program, which helps primary producers and graziers build a sustainable business by planning today for tomorrow's drought and climate risks; and
- access Queensland Government financial assistance through QRIDA. This includes Drought Preparedness Grants, Drought Ready and Recovery Finance Loans, Emergency Drought Assistance Loans and Drought Carry-on Finance Loans.

Recognising the scale of Queensland, and rainfall and seasonal variability between regions, if a producer believes they are still experiencing difficult conditions in a council area that is no longer drought declared, they can apply for an Individually Droughted Property (IDP) declaration. If endorsed this will continue to give them the same access to drought assistance as a current area declaration.

Rural Fire Brigade Association of Qld (RFBAQ) recently visited Judah Rural Fire Brigade to address the needs of the Shire with the emergent bush fire risk. They had on display a 5000L skid water tank which can be loaded onto a landholders body truck giving more capacity to fight a fire. RFBAQ have recommended to Rural Fire Service Qld (RFSQ) that Barcoo Shire be provided with an additional 2000L water trailer and 2 x the new 5000L skids. Whilst they were visiting Ted was given presented with the National Medal recognising 15yrs of continued volunteering in the Qld Rural Fire Brigade by Deputy Commissioner Joanne Greenfield seen in the photo below with Ted.

The following is the externally funded project status update:

- Windorah water treatment plant – in operation.
- McPhelley's crossing – Due to recent wet weather event delays to be expected.
- Mt Felix floodway – Project on hold due to weather
- Ray Paynter culvert/floodway – scheduled to be completed before June
- Stonehenge water treatment plant new shed and filter upgrade – plans are being finalised with procurement commencing

The following is an update of our work crews and their progress on roads around the Shire. Both crews have experienced delays due to rain. Darren Mattheson's crew have been doing shoulders on the Jundah Windorah Rd will return from break this week and go back to Carella road to perform flood damage. Jason Beilby's crew are continuing Windorah Bedourie Rd at Morney.

The maintenance grader is currently doing emergency work for flood damage of various roads including Lina Glen Rd throughout the Shire. If there are sections of roads requiring immediate attention, please notify Council.

Don't forget, Council meetings are open to the public and all community members are welcome. Council meetings are rotated around the three towns, and we notify via an online flyer of upcoming Council meeting dates and times. The next meeting will be held in Jundah on the 22nd of March 2023.

Please don't hesitate to contact me on the details below if you have any queries or concerns.

GARDENING WITH FISHERS NURSERY

AUTUMN ROSES QUESTIONS

I am great believer in June plantings for new rose gardens but other Rose enthusiast's plant much earlier. The motto that many of the rose enthusiasts abide by is "the better the preparation, the better the result".

With two of the most asked questions at the start of autumn is "When should I prepare my rose garden" and "what is the best time for planting May or June"?

Firstly, it is always important that the soil where the Roses are to go is loose, friable and organically enriched. At this stage, uncomposted green materials can be used because, by the planting, it will have been broken down. Materials to use could include animal manure, grass clippings, vegetable waste, eggshells and other organic items that will decompose.

However, if you haven't prepared the garden by mid-April, you will only be able to use materials that have already been decomposed. If the proposed garden is already an existing garden, remove the remaining mulch, loosen the top layer of soil, then replace or add more mulch to the surface. It is very important to remember to always allow a ten centimetre or four inch radius of area around the plant stems clear of mulch, as this is needed to promote air circulation which is essential for good growth.

Another question that is often asked at this time of the year is, "is it ok to prune my roses now"? Established roses will require a light trimming now, with the emphasis being on light, because now is not the time to interfere with the main branches. Instead, reduce the young wood, which has produced the most recent flowers, by one third, and also to remove any unhealthy growth, including distorted leaves. Always make sure you prune your roses with sharp secateurs.

I believe the single most important requirement for successful rose growing is selection. Many local gardeners would vouch for research of the best species grown in other gardens in their districts as the best way to initially start your own garden. A champion country rose gardener was quoted as saying "If you buy only those roses known to be grown in a climate similar to ours, and plant them in a well prepared, well-drained soil in a sunny situation, then only extreme neglect will kill them".

However, growing only those tried and tested roses each year may not give the variety desired by many gardeners. Each year a myriad of new roses are released on the Australian market, with some being good and some being exceptional, and this year is no different.

ROSE FACTS

Have you ever wondered what the difference between a Miniature Rose and a Standard Rose is, or why you should buy a Hybrid Tea Rose instead of a Floribunda Rose? These questions are pondered by many novice gardeners when planning their Rose garden. So here is a simple description that differentiates each Rose from another.

Floribunda Roses are small, compact-growing shrubs that produce multiple clusters of single to fully-double flowers during spring and autumn. It is not unusual for a floribunda Rose to produce clusters of 25 flowers in a single display. It is an ideal Rose for formal garden beds or small hedges.

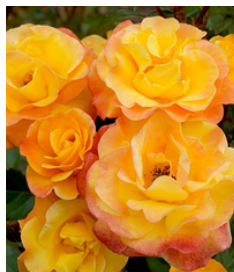

Hybrid Tea Roses are the most commonly available rose type. They are best described as having large and often fragrant flowers borne nearly all year round. Flowers of the hybrid tea roses generally have long stems, making them ideal for cut flowers. You can expect these roses to grow up to 1500mm in height.

Miniature Roses are dwarfed versions of either hybrid tea or floribunda roses, but only growing between 200 and 500mm high. These Roses make excellent tub plants and can even be used indoors for short periods of time. They are also quite suitable for rockeries, and can even be used in formal boarder hedges.

Standard Roses are either hybrid tea or floribunda Roses that have been grafted to a strong understocked base. Heights may vary depending on the height of the understock. These Roses are used for more formal or centrepiece displays and definitely would make a feature in the garden.

Climbing Roses are usually either floribunda or hybrid tea Rose hybrids that tend to ramble with their more flexible stems allowing them to be trained to cascade over walls, trail along fences or be placed on trellises, pergolas or trees, offering an alternative to Bougainvilleas.
